

SCOUT AGENT

STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP)

ROLE 1: SCOUTING AGENT (CLIENT ACQUISITION & QUALIFICATION)

Purpose of the Role

The Scouting Agent is responsible for identifying, evaluating, and qualifying prospective clients for representation by Nzinga MGMT.

The Scouting Agent serves as the first point of contact within the Client Affairs Department and is responsible for building complete, accurate, and professionally structured Client Packets that allow the agency to make informed representation decisions.

The Scouting Agent does not approve representation.

The Scouting Agent does not negotiate contracts.

The Scouting Agent is responsible for transforming potential opportunities into fully documented business cases that can move confidently through the Client Affairs pipeline.

Every interaction, document, and evaluation completed by the Scouting Agent should contribute to one objective:

Providing the agency with a complete understanding of who the prospective client is before representation is offered.

STEP 1: LEAD IDENTIFICATION

The Scouting Agent begins their workflow by identifying prospective clients through approved lead sources. These sources may include agency applications, referrals, social media outreach, networking opportunities, industry events, direct scouting, or any additional acquisition channels approved by agency leadership.

At this stage, the Scouting Agent is not determining whether the individual should be represented by the agency.

Their responsibility is to determine whether enough initial information exists to justify beginning the qualification process.

Once a prospective client has been identified, the Scouting Agent creates a preliminary client record within the agency's client management system.

This record serves as the foundation for all future documentation and allows the prospective client to be tracked throughout the Client Affairs pipeline.

STEP 2: INITIAL SCREENING

After establishing the preliminary client record, the Scouting Agent performs an initial screening using publicly available information and any information voluntarily provided by the prospective client.

The purpose of this screening is to evaluate whether the individual demonstrates the professionalism, commitment, and potential necessary to continue through the agency's qualification process.

During this review, the Scouting Agent evaluates information such as:

- Public online presence.
- Professionalism of communication.
- Industry experience.
- Portfolio or body of work.
- Current career positioning.
- Brand alignment with Nzinga MGMT.
- General marketability within their intended division.

This stage is designed to determine whether the prospective client should advance to a formal discovery conversation.

If the prospective client clearly falls outside the agency's representation standards, the Scouting Agent updates the record accordingly and removes the lead from the active acquisition pipeline.

If the prospective client demonstrates sufficient potential, the qualification process continues.

STEP 3: DISCOVERY CALL & CLIENT QUALIFICATION

Once the initial screening has been completed, the Scouting Agent schedules and conducts a discovery call with the prospective client.

The purpose of this conversation is not to sell agency representation.

The purpose is to collect information, understand the individual's career objectives, evaluate professionalism, and determine whether the agency can realistically provide value through representation.

During the conversation, the Scouting Agent maintains control of the interview while creating an environment that encourages honest and detailed communication.

Topics discussed include, but are not limited to:

- Professional background.
- Career goals.
- Previous representation.
- Current projects.
- Long-term objectives.
- Availability.
- Commitment to professional development.
- Questions regarding agency representation.

The Scouting Agent should document observations regarding communication skills, professionalism, responsiveness, preparedness, and overall suitability for representation.

Immediately following the conversation, detailed notes are entered into the client's record while the information remains accurate and complete.

STEP 4: CLIENT INFORMATION COLLECTION

Following a successful discovery call, the Scouting Agent begins collecting all information necessary to prepare the client's internal file.

Every required document and data point must be verified whenever possible.

Information collected may include:

- Full legal name.
- Contact information.
- Date of birth.
- Mailing address.
- Government-issued identification when required.
- Professional biography.
- Portfolio materials.
- Social media accounts.
- Website information.
- Previous agency history.
- Professional experience.
- Division of representation.
- Any additional documentation required by agency policy.

The Scouting Agent is responsible for ensuring that information is organized, complete, and supported by appropriate documentation before moving forward.

No assumptions should ever be made regarding missing information.

STEP 5: CLIENT PACKET DEVELOPMENT

Once all required information has been collected, the Scouting Agent prepares the Client Packet.

The Client Packet serves as the official internal representation file used throughout the remainder of the Client Affairs process.

Every packet should present a complete overview of the prospective client and provide sufficient information for internal review without requiring additional clarification.

The Client Packet should include:

- Client profile summary.
- Professional background.
- Representation division.
- Career objectives.
- Supporting documentation.
- Discovery call notes.

- Market observations.
- Internal recommendations.
- Any additional information required under agency standards.

Accuracy, organization, and consistency are expected throughout the packet.

Incomplete packets should never be submitted for review.

STEP 6: SUBMISSION TO THE SUCCESS MANAGER

After completing the Client Packet, the Scouting Agent submits the file to the Success Manager for internal review.

At this stage, responsibility shifts from client qualification to quality assurance.

The Scouting Agent should not continue modifying the packet unless revisions are requested by the Success Manager.

If corrections are required, the Scouting Agent is responsible for addressing every requested revision before resubmitting the packet.

Maintaining accurate records throughout this revision process ensures the integrity of the Client Affairs pipeline.

STEP 7: PIPELINE MAINTENANCE

Even after submitting the Client Packet, the Scouting Agent remains responsible for monitoring the status of prospective clients assigned to them.

This includes:

- Responding to requests for additional information.
- Following up with prospective clients when necessary.
- Updating records if new information becomes available.
- Maintaining communication until the Success Manager assumes operational responsibility.

The Scouting Agent remains accountable for ensuring that every qualified lead progresses through the pipeline without unnecessary delays caused by incomplete communication or documentation.

SCOUTING AGENT AUTHORITY BOUNDARIES

SCOUTING AGENTS MUST NEVER:

- Offer representation on behalf of the agency.
- Promise contract approval.
- Negotiate representation terms.
- Send agency contracts.
- Collect client signatures on representation agreements.
- Skip documentation requirements.
- Submit incomplete Client Packets.
- Misrepresent agency policies or expectations.

SCOUTING AGENTS MUST ALWAYS:

- Represent the agency professionally.
 - Build accurate and complete Client Packets.
 - Maintain detailed documentation.
 - Verify information whenever possible.
 - Follow agency qualification procedures.
 - Protect confidential client information.
 - Maintain consistent communication throughout the qualification process.

ROLE DEFINITION (INTERNAL STANDARD)

The Scouting Agent is:

"The Client Acquisition Specialist responsible for identifying prospective clients, conducting structured qualification, and building complete Client Packets that allow Nzinga MGMT to make informed representation decisions."

They are not decision-makers.

They are not contract administrators.

They are the foundation of the Client Affairs pipeline, ensuring every prospective client enters the agency through a structured, professional, and fully documented qualification process.

OPS SPECIALIST

ROLE 2: SUCCESS MANAGER (CLIENT LIFECYCLE & CONTRACT ADMINISTRATION)

Purpose of the Role

The Success Manager is responsible for managing the operational lifecycle of every client after the qualification process has been completed.

The Success Manager serves as the central coordinator within the Client Affairs Department and ensures every prospective client moves through the representation process accurately, efficiently, and in accordance with Nzinga MGMT's internal standards.

Unlike the Scouting Agent, the Success Manager does not locate prospective clients.

Their responsibility begins after receiving a completed Client Packet and continues throughout the client's administrative relationship with the agency.

The Success Manager oversees quality assurance, contract administration, onboarding coordination, client lifecycle management, renewals, administrative updates, and offboarding.

Their objective is to ensure every client experiences a structured, professional, and consistent journey from contract offer through the conclusion of their representation.

STEP 1: RECEIVING THE CLIENT PACKET

The Success Manager begins their workflow only after receiving a completed Client Packet from a Scouting Agent.

At this stage, the Success Manager is not evaluating the client's talent or market potential.

Those responsibilities have already been completed during the qualification process.

Instead, the Success Manager evaluates the completeness, organization, and accuracy of the Client Packet to ensure it meets Nzinga MGMT's operational standards before any contractual documents are prepared.

The Success Manager reviews every section of the packet, verifying that required documentation has been collected, client information is accurate, and internal records are complete.

If missing information, inconsistencies, or documentation errors are identified, the packet is returned to the assigned Scouting Agent with clear correction instructions.

The Success Manager does not complete the Scout's work.

They enforce the agency's quality standards before representation begins.

STEP 2: CLIENT FILE VALIDATION

Once the Client Packet has passed quality review, the Success Manager performs a final validation of the client's internal record.

This validation ensures that every piece of information necessary to prepare a representation agreement has been properly documented.

The Success Manager confirms:

- Client identity information.
- Contact information.
- Representation division.
- Supporting documentation.
- Internal notes.
- Required approvals.
- Compliance requirements.
- Record consistency across agency systems.

Every client file should be complete before advancing to contract preparation.

If discrepancies exist, processing immediately pauses until corrections have been completed.

STEP 3: CONTRACT PREPARATION

After validation has been completed, the Success Manager prepares the client's representation agreement.

The agreement should accurately reflect:

- Representation type.
- Contract term.
- Commission structure.
- Assigned division.
- Agency policies.
- Any approved contractual provisions.

The Success Manager is responsible for ensuring that every agreement accurately reflects agency standards before it is delivered to the prospective client.

Contracts should never be prepared using incomplete or unverified information.

STEP 4: CONTRACT DELIVERY

Once the agreement has been prepared, the Success Manager delivers the contract to the prospective client for review and signature.

At this stage, the Success Manager serves as the administrative point of contact throughout the signing process.

The Success Manager may answer procedural questions regarding agency processes but may not independently negotiate contract terms without authorization from agency leadership.

Upon delivery, the client is provided seventy-two (72) hours to review and execute the agreement.

The Success Manager documents the delivery date and monitors the signing timeline until the agreement has been completed or expires.

STEP 5: CLIENT SIGNATURE MANAGEMENT

Throughout the contract period, the Success Manager is responsible for tracking the client's progress.

If the client signs the agreement within the required timeframe, the signed contract is reviewed for completeness before being forwarded to the Director.

If the client requests clarification regarding administrative procedures, the Success Manager provides appropriate guidance while ensuring all communication remains documented.

If the agreement expires without execution, the Success Manager updates the client's status within the agency system and coordinates with the assigned Scouting Agent regarding appropriate follow-up.

Every contract should remain fully traceable from issuance through completion.

STEP 6: DIRECTOR APPROVAL COORDINATION

After receiving the client's executed agreement, the Success Manager prepares the contract for executive approval.

The completed agreement is forwarded to the Director for the agency's final signature.

The Success Manager verifies that all required client signatures have been obtained before requesting executive approval.

Representation officially begins only after both parties have executed the agreement.

STEP 7: CLIENT ACTIVATION

Once the Director has signed the agreement, the Success Manager activates the client's agency profile.

Activation includes updating internal systems, changing the client's status to Active, confirming representation details, and preparing the client for transition into their assigned division.

The Success Manager ensures all onboarding requirements have been completed before the client is introduced to their primary department.

No client should enter active representation with incomplete administrative records.

STEP 8: DIVISION HANDOFF

After activation has been completed, the Success Manager coordinates the client's transition to their assigned division.

This process includes notifying the receiving department, confirming assignment information, and ensuring all necessary documentation accompanies the transfer.

The handoff should be structured, documented, and completed without disrupting the client's experience.

Although operational responsibility transfers to the assigned division, the Success Manager remains responsible for managing the client's administrative lifecycle within Client Affairs.

STEP 9: CLIENT LIFECYCLE MANAGEMENT

Throughout the client's representation, the Success Manager maintains ownership of the administrative relationship between the client and the agency.

Responsibilities include:

- Maintaining client records.
- Updating contract information.
- Processing administrative changes.
- Coordinating renewals.
- Recording amendments.
- Monitoring representation status.
- Managing internal client classifications.

- Coordinating communication between departments when administrative action is required.

The Success Manager ensures every client record remains accurate throughout the duration of representation.

STEP 10: CLIENT OFFBOARDING

When a client's representation concludes, the Success Manager initiates the agency's offboarding process.

This process may occur due to contract expiration, non-renewal, mutual separation, or other approved agency circumstances.

Working alongside the Account Manager, the Success Manager ensures:

- Client status is updated.
- Internal systems are deactivated.
- Division notifications are completed.
- Agency records are archived.
- Required documentation has been finalized.
- Administrative responsibilities have been concluded.

Every client should leave the agency through the same structured process used when they entered.

Maintaining complete records ensures future reference, compliance, and professional closure.

SUCCESS MANAGER AUTHORITY BOUNDARIES

SUCCESS MANAGERS MUST NEVER:

- Recruit prospective clients.
- Offer representation without agency approval.
- Alter approved contract terms without authorization.
- Execute contracts on behalf of the Director.

- Bypass internal review procedures.
- Activate incomplete client files.
- Skip administrative documentation.

SUCCESS MANAGERS MUST ALWAYS:

- Maintain complete client records.
 - Verify information before preparing agreements.
 - Monitor contract timelines.
 - Coordinate executive approvals.
 - Ensure successful onboarding.
 - Manage the client's administrative lifecycle.
 - Maintain communication with internal departments.
 - Coordinate structured client offboarding.
 - Protect confidential client information.

ROLE DEFINITION (INTERNAL STANDARD)

The Success Manager is:

"The Client Lifecycle Administrator responsible for managing every administrative stage of representation, from internal quality review and contract administration through onboarding, lifecycle management, renewals, and client offboarding."

They are not talent scouts.

They are not executive decision-makers.

They are the operational backbone of the Client Affairs Department, ensuring every client experiences a consistent, organized, and professionally managed relationship with Nzinga MGMT from representation through departure.

ACCOUNT MANAGER

STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP)

ROLE 3: ACCOUNT MANAGER (FINANCIAL OPERATIONS & CLIENT ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT)

Purpose of the Role

The Account Manager is responsible for managing the financial relationship between Nzinga MGMT and its clients throughout the duration of representation.

The Account Manager ensures that all financial records remain accurate, payments are processed correctly, commissions are documented, and every client account remains in good financial standing.

Unlike the Success Manager, the Account Manager does not oversee contracts or onboarding.

Their responsibility is to maintain the financial integrity of every active client account while supporting the agency's accounting and operational processes.

From the client's first payment through their final financial reconciliation upon leaving the agency, the Account Manager is responsible for ensuring every financial transaction is properly recorded, verified, and maintained.

Every action performed by the Account Manager contributes to one objective:

Maintaining accurate, transparent, and accountable financial records throughout every client's relationship with Nzinga MGMT.

STEP 1: RECEIVING THE ACTIVE CLIENT ACCOUNT

The Account Manager begins their workflow after a client has completed onboarding and has officially entered active representation.

Once notified by the Success Manager that a client has been activated, the Account Manager establishes the client's financial profile within the agency's accounting systems.

At this stage, the Account Manager verifies all financial information collected during onboarding, ensuring payment methods, tax documentation, commission structures, and account information are complete and properly recorded.

The Account Manager confirms that the client's financial records align with the executed representation agreement before any financial activity begins.

STEP 2: FINANCIAL ACCOUNT SETUP

Once the client's financial profile has been reviewed, the Account Manager prepares the account for active financial management.

This process includes confirming:

- Payment information.
- Tax documentation.
- Commission structure.
- Payment schedules.
- Internal accounting classifications.
- Client financial records.

Every financial account must be complete before client transactions begin.

If discrepancies are identified, the Account Manager immediately coordinates with the Success Manager to resolve the issue before financial processing continues.

STEP 3: PAYMENT MANAGEMENT

Throughout the client's representation, the Account Manager is responsible for monitoring all incoming and outgoing financial activity related to the client.

This includes processing payments received by the agency, maintaining accurate payment histories, and ensuring all financial transactions are properly documented within agency systems.

Every transaction should be supported by appropriate documentation and recorded according to internal accounting procedures.

Accuracy and consistency are expected at every stage of the financial process.

STEP 4: COMMISSION MANAGEMENT

The Account Manager maintains records relating to agency commissions earned throughout the client's representation.

This includes verifying commission calculations, maintaining payment histories, and ensuring all financial reporting accurately reflects agency agreements.

Any discrepancies identified during commission tracking should be investigated immediately and resolved before financial records are finalized.

The Account Manager serves as the agency's primary administrator for commission documentation.

STEP 5: CLIENT ACCOUNT MAINTENANCE

As clients continue through active representation, the Account Manager regularly reviews each financial account to ensure information remains current and accurate.

This includes monitoring:

- Outstanding balances.
- Payment activity.
- Financial record accuracy.
- Required documentation.
- Internal account classifications.

If updates are required, the Account Manager works alongside the Success Manager to ensure all financial records remain synchronized with the client's administrative records.

Maintaining consistency across systems protects both the agency and the client.

STEP 6: FINANCIAL SUPPORT

The Account Manager serves as the department's primary resource for financial inquiries relating to client accounts.

When appropriate, the Account Manager provides administrative assistance regarding:

- Payment history.
- Billing questions.
- Invoice status.
- Commission records.
- Financial documentation.

Questions involving contractual obligations or representation terms are referred to the Success Manager, while executive financial decisions remain under the authority of agency leadership.

The Account Manager focuses exclusively on financial administration.

STEP 7: CLIENT OFFBOARDING & FINAL ACCOUNT RECONCILIATION

When a client's representation concludes, the Account Manager works directly with the Success Manager to complete the agency's financial offboarding process.

This includes reviewing the client's account for outstanding balances, processing any remaining financial obligations, documenting final transactions, and preparing the account for closure.

Once all financial responsibilities have been satisfied, the client's financial records are archived in accordance with agency policy.

The objective is to ensure every client account is properly reconciled before representation officially concludes.

ACCOUNT MANAGER AUTHORITY BOUNDARIES

ACCOUNT MANAGERS MUST NEVER:

- Recruit prospective clients.
- Approve representation agreements.
- Negotiate contracts.
- Modify executed agreements.
- Activate new client accounts.
- Override agency financial policies.
- Perform duties assigned to the Success Manager or Director.

ACCOUNT MANAGERS MUST ALWAYS:

- Maintain accurate financial records.
- Process payments in accordance with agency procedures.
- Verify financial information before processing transactions.
- Protect confidential financial information.
- Maintain complete documentation.
- Coordinate with the Success Manager regarding client account changes.
- Complete financial reconciliation before client account closure.

The Account Manager is:

"The Financial Operations Specialist responsible for maintaining accurate client financial records, managing agency payment processes, monitoring commissions, and ensuring every client account remains financially compliant throughout the lifecycle of representation."

They are not client recruiters.

They are not contract administrators.

They are the financial stewards of the Client Affairs Department, ensuring that every financial interaction between Nzinga MGMT and its clients is managed with accuracy, accountability, and professionalism from activation through final account closure.

DIRECTOR Of CLIENT AFFAIRS

STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP)

ROLE 4: DIRECTOR (EXECUTIVE AUTHORITY & CLIENT AFFAIRS OVERSIGHT)

Purpose of the Role

The Director serves as the highest authority within the Client Affairs Department and is the final executive decision-maker for all new client representation.

The Director is responsible for protecting the integrity of the agency's client acquisition process by ensuring that every prospective client entering Nzinga MGMT has successfully completed the department's qualification, review, and contract administration procedures before representation officially begins.

Unlike other roles within the department, the Director does not participate in daily operational tasks.

The Director does not recruit clients.

The Director does not prepare Client Packets.

The Director does not manage contracts, onboarding, or financial records.

Instead, the Director provides executive oversight of the Client Affairs Department while serving as the agency's authorized signatory for all representation agreements.

Their objective is to ensure that Client Affairs operates as a structured, efficient, and accountable system capable of delivering a consistent client experience while supporting the agency's long-term growth.

STEP 1: RECEIVING THE EXECUTIVE CLIENT FILE

The Director begins their workflow only after a prospective client has successfully completed the Client Affairs pipeline.

Before reaching the Director, every client file should have completed:

- Client qualification by the Scouting Agent.
- Internal review by the Success Manager.
- Contract preparation.
- Client execution of the representation agreement.

By the time a file reaches executive review, it should already represent a complete and professionally organized record requiring no additional operational work.

The Director's time is reserved for executive decision-making rather than administrative corrections.

STEP 2: EXECUTIVE REVIEW

Once the completed file has been received, the Director performs a strategic review of the prospective client's representation package.

The Director evaluates the overall readiness of the file while confirming that agency standards have been followed throughout the qualification process.

This review includes confirmation of:

- Client background.
- Representation division.
- Administrative completeness.
- Contract readiness.
- Agency alignment.
- Overall quality of the client file.

The Director's responsibility is not to repeat the work completed by the Client Affairs Department.

Instead, the Director confirms that the department has successfully fulfilled its responsibilities before representation is approved.

STEP 3: FINAL EXECUTIVE DECISION

Following executive review, the Director determines whether the agency will officially extend representation.

The Director has three available decisions:

APPROVE

If the client file meets agency standards, the Director executes the representation agreement on behalf of Nzinga MGMT.

Once signed, the agreement becomes fully executed, and the client officially enters active representation.

RETURN FOR REVIEW

If clarification or additional documentation is required before representation can begin, the Director returns the file to the Success Manager with structured feedback.

The Director does not directly modify client records.

Operational corrections remain the responsibility of the Client Affairs Department.

DECLINE REPRESENTATION

If executive leadership determines that representation is not in the agency's best interest, the Director may decline the opportunity.

The decision is documented internally, and the client record is updated according to agency procedures.

STEP 4: EXECUTION OF REPRESENTATION

After approving representation, the Director executes the agency's portion of the representation agreement.

The Director's signature serves as the agency's official authorization to begin representation.

Immediately following execution, the signed agreement is returned to the Success Manager so the client can be activated and connected to their assigned division.

The Director's responsibility concludes once executive authorization has been completed.

Operational ownership returns to the Client Affairs Department.

STEP 5: DEPARTMENT OVERSIGHT

Beyond individual client approvals, the Director maintains continuous oversight of the Client Affairs Department.

The Director monitors departmental performance by reviewing:

- Client acquisition activity.
- Pipeline health.
- Client conversion rates.
- Contract completion timelines.
- Department productivity.
- Workflow efficiency.
- Quality assurance standards.
- Employee performance.
- Overall operational effectiveness.

The Director evaluates trends rather than individual tasks.

When opportunities for improvement are identified, the Director implements procedural updates, operational improvements, or departmental restructuring as necessary.

The objective is continuous improvement rather than day-to-day management.

STEP 6: STRATEGIC LEADERSHIP

The Director is responsible for ensuring the Client Affairs Department continues to evolve alongside the agency.

This includes evaluating staffing needs, developing future leadership, improving internal systems, and identifying opportunities to increase efficiency without compromising quality.

As the agency grows, the Director determines when additional Scouting Agents, Success Managers, Account Managers, or leadership positions should be added to support client demand.

Every structural decision should strengthen the department while preserving consistency across all client experiences.

STEP 7: SYSTEM INTEGRITY

The Director maintains responsibility for protecting the integrity of the Client Affairs Department as a whole.

This includes ensuring that:

- Agency procedures are consistently followed.
- Internal standards remain high.
- Client records are properly maintained.
- Department responsibilities remain clearly defined.
- Employees operate within their assigned authority.
- Client experiences remain consistent across every stage of the lifecycle.

The Director should intervene only when operational issues require executive leadership.

The department is designed to operate through structured systems, not constant executive involvement.

DIRECTOR AUTHORITY BOUNDARIES

DIRECTOR MUST NEVER:

- Recruit prospective clients.
- Build Client Packets.
- Conduct discovery calls.
- Prepare representation agreements.
- Manage client onboarding.
- Process financial transactions.
- Perform responsibilities assigned to the Success Manager or Account Manager.
- Bypass established Client Affairs procedures without documented authorization.

DIRECTOR MUST ALWAYS:

- Make final representation decisions.
 - Execute agency representation agreements.
 - Protect the integrity of Client Affairs operations.
 - Monitor departmental performance.
 - Support employee development.
 - Improve operational systems.
 - Ensure agency standards are consistently maintained.
 - Provide strategic leadership for the department.

The Director is:

"The executive authority responsible for final client approval, execution of representation agreements, and strategic oversight of the Client Affairs Department, ensuring every client enters, progresses through, and exits the agency under a structured, professional, and accountable system."

They are not operational administrators.

They are not client recruiters.

They are the executive steward of the Client Affairs Department, responsible for protecting the integrity of its people, processes, and standards while guiding the department's continued growth and long-term success.

CLIENT AFFAIRS DEPARTMENT

STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP)

CLIENT AFFAIRS DEPARTMENT

Department Purpose

The Client Affairs Department is responsible for managing the complete administrative lifecycle of every client represented by Nzinga MGMT.

From the moment a prospective client enters the agency's acquisition pipeline until the day their representation concludes, Client Affairs serves as the central department responsible for ensuring every stage of the client journey is executed with professionalism, consistency, and operational excellence.

The department functions as the agency's administrative foundation.

Every prospective client enters through Client Affairs.

Every representation agreement is processed through Client Affairs.

Every client is activated through Client Affairs.

Every client record is maintained through Client Affairs.

Every client exits the agency through Client Affairs.

The department exists to ensure that every client receives the same structured experience regardless of their division, background, or representation type.

Rather than operating as individual positions performing unrelated tasks, Client Affairs functions as a unified operational system where each role has a clearly defined responsibility that contributes to the client's overall experience.

Every action performed within the department should support one objective:

Providing every client with a professional, organized, and consistent experience throughout their entire relationship with Nzinga MGMT.

◆ Department Structure

The Client Affairs Department is organized into four operational roles that work together throughout the client lifecycle.

Director

The Director serves as the executive authority of the department and is responsible for final representation approval, execution of agency agreements, and strategic oversight of departmental operations.

Success Manager

The Success Manager manages the client's administrative lifecycle after qualification, including quality assurance, contract administration, onboarding, client activation, lifecycle management, renewals, and offboarding.

Account Manager

The Account Manager oversees the financial relationship between the agency and every active client, maintaining payment records, commissions, billing activity, and financial account integrity throughout representation.

Scouting Agent

The Scouting Agent identifies prospective clients, conducts qualification, collects documentation, and prepares complete Client Packets for internal review.

◆ Department Workflow

Every prospective client progresses through the same structured workflow regardless of their representation division.

The standard Client Affairs process consists of:

Lead Identification

A prospective client is identified and entered into the agency's acquisition pipeline by a Scouting Agent.

Client Qualification

The Scouting Agent conducts screening, interviews the prospective client, gathers documentation, and prepares a complete Client Packet.

Internal Review

The Success Manager reviews the Client Packet, verifies documentation, confirms compliance with agency standards, and prepares the representation agreement.

Contract Administration

The representation agreement is delivered to the prospective client for review and signature.

Clients are provided seventy-two (72) hours to execute the agreement unless otherwise approved by agency leadership.

Executive Approval

After the client has signed the agreement, the Director reviews the completed file and executes the agency's portion of the representation agreement.

Client Activation

Following full execution of the agreement, the Success Manager activates the client's account, updates agency systems, and connects the client to their assigned division.

Active Representation

Throughout representation, the Success Manager oversees the client's administrative lifecycle while the Account Manager manages all financial operations associated with the client's account.

Renewal or Offboarding

At the conclusion of the representation agreement, Client Affairs coordinates either the renewal process or the structured offboarding of the client, ensuring all administrative and financial responsibilities have been completed before the client record is archived.

◆ Department Standards

Every member of the Client Affairs Department is expected to uphold the same operational standards regardless of position.

These standards include:

- Professional communication.
- Accountability for assigned responsibilities.
- Accurate documentation.
- Timely completion of assigned tasks.
- Protection of confidential client information.
- Collaboration across departments.
- Consistent adherence to agency procedures.
- Respect for established authority and workflow.

Every employee is responsible for protecting the integrity of the Client Affairs Department by following established procedures and maintaining the highest level of professionalism.

◆ Career Development

Nzinga MGMT believes in developing leaders from within the organization whenever possible.

The Client Affairs Department is structured to provide employees with opportunities for professional growth through demonstrated performance, accountability, leadership, and mastery of departmental procedures.

As the agency continues to expand, additional positions may be created to support increased client volume while preserving the department's operational standards.

Employees are encouraged to pursue advancement through continued learning, consistent performance, and a commitment to the agency's mission.

DEPARTMENT DEFINITION (INTERNAL STANDARD)

The Client Affairs Department is:

"The operational division responsible for managing the complete administrative lifecycle of every client represented by Nzinga MGMT, ensuring every stage of representation is executed through structured systems, consistent standards, and exceptional client service."

Client Affairs is more than a department.

It is the operational foundation that connects prospective clients, executive leadership, financial administration, and representation into one unified system.

Every client enters through Client Affairs.

Every client progresses through Client Affairs.

Every client exits through Client Affairs.

The department is responsible for ensuring that journey is professional, organized, and consistent from beginning to end.

LIFECYCLE STANDARDS

CLIENT LIFECYCLE STANDARDS

Purpose

The Client Affairs Department manages every client through a standardized lifecycle designed to provide consistency, accountability, and operational excellence across every stage of representation.

Every prospective client, regardless of representation division, follows the same administrative workflow from initial contact through the conclusion of their representation agreement.

The purpose of this lifecycle is to ensure every client receives a professional and consistent experience while maintaining accurate records, clear communication, and operational efficiency throughout the agency.

No employee may bypass or alter the established lifecycle without authorization from the Director.

STAGE 1: LEAD ACQUISITION

The client lifecycle officially begins when a prospective client is identified by a Scouting Agent.

A lead may originate from applications, referrals, social media outreach, networking events, industry contacts, or any other acquisition source approved by Nzinga MGMT.

Every prospective client must receive an internal client record before any qualification activities begin.

No lead should exist outside the agency's client management system.

STAGE 2: CLIENT QUALIFICATION

Once a lead has entered the system, the assigned Scouting Agent begins the qualification process.

This stage includes:

- Initial screening.
- Discovery conversations.
- Information gathering.
- Documentation collection.
- Professional evaluation.
- Client Packet development.

The objective is to determine whether sufficient information exists to recommend the prospective client for internal review.

A Client Packet must be complete before advancing to the next stage.

STAGE 3: INTERNAL REVIEW

After the Client Packet has been completed, the Success Manager performs a structured review of the client's file.

The purpose of this stage is to ensure that all required documentation has been collected, information is accurate, and agency standards have been satisfied before contractual documents are prepared.

Incomplete or inaccurate files are returned for correction.

Only complete client files may proceed to contract preparation.

STAGE 4: CONTRACT ADMINISTRATION

Following internal approval, the Success Manager prepares and delivers the agency's representation agreement.

Every contract is monitored from the time it is delivered until the agreement has been executed, declined, or expires.

Unless otherwise approved by executive leadership, prospective clients are provided seventy-two (72) hours to sign their representation agreement.

The Success Manager maintains responsibility for monitoring all contract activity during this stage.

STAGE 5: EXECUTIVE APPROVAL

Once the client has executed the agreement, the Director reviews the completed file and signs on behalf of Nzinga MGMT.

Representation does not begin until both the client and the Director have signed the agreement.

Only the Director has authority to execute agency representation agreements.

STAGE 6: CLIENT ACTIVATION

After executive approval has been completed, the Success Manager activates the client's account within the agency.

Activation includes updating internal systems, confirming representation status, assigning the client to their primary division, and completing all onboarding requirements.

The client officially becomes active only after activation has been completed.

STAGE 7: ACTIVE REPRESENTATION

Throughout representation, Client Affairs maintains administrative ownership of the client's account.

The Success Manager oversees administrative responsibilities, while the Account Manager manages all financial activity associated with the client's account.

Client Affairs remains responsible for maintaining accurate records, monitoring contract status, coordinating administrative updates, and supporting internal departments whenever client-related administrative action is required.

STAGE 8: RENEWAL OR OFFBOARDING

As a representation agreement approaches expiration, the Success Manager begins the renewal review process.

If representation will continue, a new agreement or approved amendment is prepared according to agency policy.

If representation concludes, the Success Manager and Account Manager coordinate the client's structured offboarding.

Offboarding includes updating client status, completing financial reconciliation, archiving records, and removing the client from active agency systems.

Every client should leave the agency through the same structured process used when they entered.

CLIENT STATUS DEFINITIONS

To maintain consistency across all departments, every client record must remain assigned to one of the following statuses:

Lead

A prospective client who has entered the acquisition pipeline but has not completed qualification.

Qualified

A prospective client whose Client Packet has been completed and submitted for internal review.

Contract Pending

A prospective client who has received a representation agreement and is awaiting execution.

Director Review

A prospective client whose executed agreement is awaiting final executive approval.

Active Client

A client with a fully executed representation agreement who has completed onboarding and entered active representation.

Renewal Pending

An active client whose representation agreement is approaching expiration and is currently under renewal review.

Inactive Client

A former client who is no longer represented by the agency but whose records remain maintained according to agency policy.

Archived Client

A client whose administrative and financial records have been finalized and permanently archived in accordance with agency retention requirements.

CLIENT LIFECYCLE STANDARD

Every employee within the Client Affairs Department is responsible for protecting the integrity of the client lifecycle.

Clients should never move backward, skip stages, or advance prematurely without proper authorization and documentation.

Consistency throughout the lifecycle ensures every client receives the same professional experience while allowing the agency to maintain accurate records, efficient operations, and exceptional service across every department.

The client lifecycle is the operational framework upon which the Client Affairs Department is built.

Every role contributes to its success.

Every procedure supports its integrity.

Every client progresses through it from beginning to end.

COMMUNICATION STANDARDS

CLIENT COMMUNICATION STANDARDS

Purpose

Professional communication is one of the core responsibilities of the Client Affairs Department.

Every interaction with a prospective client, active client, former client, or internal department reflects the standards and reputation of Nzinga MGMT. Employees are expected to communicate professionally, respectfully, and consistently at every stage of the client lifecycle.

The purpose of these standards is to establish a uniform approach to communication so that every client receives the same level of professionalism regardless of which employee they interact with.

Communication should always support the agency's commitment to organization, accountability, transparency, and exceptional client service.

STANDARD 1: PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

Every employee is expected to maintain a professional tone in all verbal, written, and electronic communication.

Communication should be:

- Clear and easy to understand.
- Respectful and courteous.
- Accurate and truthful.
- Timely and responsive.
- Consistent with agency policies and procedures.

Employees should represent the agency professionally at all times, regardless of the communication platform being used.

STANDARD 2: RESPONSE EXPECTATIONS

Client Affairs is responsible for maintaining timely communication throughout the client lifecycle.

Employees should make every reasonable effort to respond to client and internal inquiries as quickly as operationally possible.

If an immediate answer cannot be provided, employees should acknowledge the communication and advise the individual that the request is being reviewed.

No inquiry should be ignored or left without follow-up.

Maintaining consistent communication builds trust and improves the overall client experience.

STANDARD 3: INTERNAL COMMUNICATION

Effective communication between departments is essential to maintaining an organized workflow.

Employees should ensure that important client information is properly documented and communicated to the appropriate department whenever action is required.

Whenever possible, communication should occur through approved agency systems to maintain accurate records and accountability.

Verbal conversations that impact a client's account should be documented within the client's record.

STANDARD 4: CLIENT CONFIDENTIALITY

Employees are entrusted with sensitive client information throughout the representation process.

Client information may only be shared with authorized personnel who require access to perform their assigned responsibilities.

Confidential information includes, but is not limited to:

- Personal identifying information.
- Contact information.
- Financial information.
- Contract details.
- Internal evaluations.
- Client records.
- Agency communications.
- Any non-public information obtained during representation.

Employees are expected to protect confidential information at all times and follow all agency privacy and security procedures.

STANDARD 5: DOCUMENTATION OF COMMUNICATION

Significant client communications should be documented within the agency's client management system.

Documentation should include:

- Date and time of the communication.
- Method of communication.
- Summary of the discussion.
- Any decisions or commitments made.
- Required follow-up actions.

Maintaining accurate communication records ensures continuity, accountability, and consistency throughout the client lifecycle.

STANDARD 6: PROFESSIONAL BOUNDARIES

Employees should maintain professional boundaries in every client interaction.

Client Affairs employees should avoid making promises, guarantees, or commitments that exceed their authority.

Questions relating to contracts, financial matters, or executive decisions should be directed to the appropriate role within the department.

Employees should always operate within the responsibilities assigned to their position and avoid providing information outside their scope of authority.

STANDARD 7: CONFLICT RESOLUTION

If a client expresses dissatisfaction or raises a concern, employees should remain professional, listen carefully, and document the issue.

Whenever possible, concerns should be resolved at the appropriate level within the department.

If an issue requires additional authority or executive review, the matter should be escalated through the established chain of responsibility without unnecessary delay.

The goal of every interaction should be to resolve concerns professionally while maintaining the agency's standards and protecting the client relationship.

COMMUNICATION STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Communication within the Client Affairs Department should always reflect the professionalism of Nzinga MGMT.

Employees are expected to communicate with honesty, respect, accountability, and consistency while maintaining accurate documentation and protecting confidential information.

Every conversation contributes to the client's overall experience with the agency.

Professional communication is not simply an expectation of the Client Affairs Department—it is a fundamental operational standard that supports every stage of the client lifecycle.

RECORDKEEPING STANDARDS

DOCUMENTATION & RECORDKEEPING STANDARDS

Purpose

The Client Affairs Department is responsible for maintaining complete, accurate, and organized records throughout every stage of a client's relationship with Nzinga MGMT.

Every client interaction, document, approval, contract, and administrative action contributes to the client's official agency record. These records serve as the foundation for communication, operational continuity, financial accountability, and informed decision-making across the agency.

The purpose of this policy is to establish consistent documentation standards that ensure every employee follows the same procedures when creating, updating, and maintaining client records.

Every client record should accurately reflect the client's current status within the agency at all times.

STANDARD 1: CLIENT RECORD CREATION

A client record shall be created immediately after a prospective client has been identified and approved to enter the Client Affairs pipeline.

The assigned Scouting Agent is responsible for creating the initial client record and ensuring all available information is entered accurately.

Every client record should include all required identifying information before the qualification process begins.

No prospective client should move through the Client Affairs process without an active client record.

STANDARD 2: DOCUMENT ACCURACY

Every document entered into the client's record must be accurate, complete, and verified whenever possible.

Employees are responsible for reviewing information before saving it to the client's file.

If an error is identified after documentation has been completed, the correction should be made promptly while preserving an accurate history of the client's record.

Employees should never intentionally enter false, misleading, or incomplete information into agency systems.

The accuracy of client records directly impacts the quality of service provided by the agency.

STANDARD 3: REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

Each client record should contain all documentation required to support the client's administrative lifecycle.

Depending on the client's stage within the agency, documentation may include:

- Client profile information.
- Contact information.
- Discovery notes.
- Client Packet.
- Supporting documents.
- Representation agreements.
- Contract amendments.
- Renewal documentation.
- Communication records.
- Financial records.
- Internal notes.
- Offboarding documentation.

Employees are responsible for ensuring documents are properly labeled, organized, and uploaded to the appropriate location within the agency's systems.

STANDARD 4: RECORD UPDATES

Client records should be updated whenever a significant event occurs during the client's relationship with the agency.

Examples include:

- Completion of a discovery call.
- Submission of a Client Packet.
- Contract delivery.
- Contract execution.
- Client activation.
- Division assignment.
- Administrative changes.
- Contract renewals.
- Financial updates.
- Client offboarding.

Records should always reflect the client's current status and the most recent administrative activity.

STANDARD 5: INTERNAL NOTES

Internal notes provide important context for future communication and decision-making.

Notes should be:

- Professional.
- Objective.
- Accurate.
- Relevant.
- Free from personal opinions or unnecessary commentary.

Every note entered into a client record may be referenced by other authorized employees and should support continuity across the department.

Employees should document facts rather than assumptions.

STANDARD 6: DOCUMENT RETENTION

Client records remain the property of Nzinga MGMT.

Documentation shall be retained in accordance with agency record retention policies, even after a client's representation has concluded.

Archived records should remain organized and accessible to authorized personnel when required for legal, operational, or historical purposes.

Employees are prohibited from deleting client records without authorization from the Director.

STANDARD 7: RECORD ACCESS

Client records are accessible only to authorized personnel.

Although Client Affairs employees may have visibility into agency records, employees are expected to access information solely for legitimate business purposes related to their assigned responsibilities.

Unauthorized access, disclosure, duplication, or misuse of client information is strictly prohibited.

Maintaining confidentiality is the responsibility of every employee.

STANDARD 8: RECORD QUALITY REVIEWS

To ensure consistency and accuracy, client records may be periodically reviewed by the Success Manager or Director.

Quality reviews help identify:

- Missing documentation.
- Incomplete records.
- Data inconsistencies.
- Process deviations.

- Opportunities for operational improvement.

Employees are expected to cooperate fully during quality assurance reviews and promptly address any deficiencies identified.

Regular record reviews support accountability and help maintain the high standards expected by Nzinga MGMT.

DOCUMENTATION STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Accurate documentation is the foundation of the Client Affairs Department.

Every employee is responsible for creating, maintaining, and protecting client records throughout the client's relationship with the agency.

Client records should always be complete, organized, current, and capable of providing a clear history of the client's journey from initial lead through active representation and final offboarding.

Proper documentation protects the client, supports the agency's operations, and ensures continuity across every department.

Maintaining exceptional records is not simply an administrative task—it is a professional responsibility shared by every member of the Client Affairs Department.

ASSURANCE STANDARDS

Purpose

Quality assurance is a core responsibility of the Client Affairs Department and is essential to maintaining consistent operational standards throughout the client lifecycle.

Every client file, contract, administrative action, and internal process should meet the standards established by Nzinga MGMT before progressing to the next stage of the client lifecycle.

The purpose of quality assurance is not to criticize employee performance, but to ensure accuracy, consistency, accountability, and operational excellence across the department.

Every employee is responsible for producing quality work. The Success Manager and Director are responsible for ensuring those standards are consistently maintained.

STANDARD 1: CLIENT PACKET REVIEW

Before any representation agreement is prepared, every Client Packet must undergo a quality review by the Success Manager.

The review verifies that all required documentation has been collected, information is accurate, internal notes are complete, and agency standards have been met.

Client Packets that do not meet agency standards shall be returned to the assigned Scouting Agent for correction.

Incomplete or inaccurate packets shall not proceed to contract preparation.

STANDARD 2: CONTRACT ACCURACY

Every representation agreement must accurately reflect the approved client information contained within the Client Packet.

Before a contract is delivered, the Success Manager should verify:

- Client information.
- Representation type.
- Assigned division.
- Contract term.
- Commission structure.
- Required signatures and approvals.

Errors discovered before execution should be corrected immediately.

Errors discovered after execution should be reported to the Director and corrected in accordance with agency procedures.

STANDARD 3: CLIENT RECORD AUDITS

Client records may be reviewed periodically to ensure documentation remains complete and accurate.

Quality reviews may include:

- Verification of required documents.
- Review of communication history.
- Confirmation of client status.
- Accuracy of internal notes.
- Completeness of administrative actions.

The purpose of these audits is to identify inconsistencies before they impact the client experience or agency operations.

STANDARD 4: LIFECYCLE COMPLIANCE

Every client should progress through the established Client Affairs lifecycle in the proper order.

Employees should never skip required steps, bypass approvals, or advance a client without completing the procedures required for that stage.

The integrity of the Client Affairs Department depends on maintaining a consistent workflow for every client.

STANDARD 5: TIMELINESS

Quality includes completing responsibilities within a reasonable timeframe.

Employees are expected to complete assigned work promptly while maintaining accuracy.

Examples include:

- Reviewing Client Packets without unnecessary delay.
- Delivering contracts after internal approval.
- Monitoring contract deadlines.
- Activating clients promptly after executive approval.
- Updating client records as administrative actions occur.

Timeliness improves both operational efficiency and the overall client experience.

STANDARD 6: CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

Quality assurance is an ongoing process.

Employees are encouraged to identify opportunities to improve workflows, eliminate inefficiencies, and strengthen department procedures.

Suggestions for operational improvements should be submitted to the Director for review.

As the agency grows, quality assurance standards may be revised to reflect new technologies, business needs, and operational priorities.

STANDARD 7: CORRECTIVE ACTIONS

When quality issues are identified, the goal is to resolve the issue promptly while preventing similar occurrences in the future.

Corrective actions may include:

- Updating documentation.
- Completing missing information.
- Correcting administrative errors.
- Additional employee coaching.
- Process improvements.
- Policy revisions.

Employees are expected to cooperate fully during corrective actions and view quality reviews as opportunities for continuous improvement rather than disciplinary actions.

QUALITY ASSURANCE STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Quality is the responsibility of every employee within the Client Affairs Department.

Every task should be completed with accuracy, professionalism, and attention to detail before advancing to the next stage of the client lifecycle.

By maintaining consistent quality standards, the department protects the integrity of agency operations, supports informed decision-making, and ensures every client receives the professional experience expected from Nzinga MGMT.

Operational excellence is achieved through consistency, accountability, and a commitment to continuous improvement.

KPIs

PERFORMANCE EXPECTATIONS & KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS (KPIs)

Purpose

The Client Affairs Department is committed to maintaining a culture of professionalism, accountability, continuous improvement, and operational excellence.

Performance expectations establish the standards by which employees are evaluated and provide clear expectations for daily responsibilities, productivity, quality of work, and professional conduct.

Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) are designed to measure both individual and departmental performance. These metrics help identify strengths, opportunities for improvement, and areas where additional training or operational adjustments may be necessary.

Performance evaluations are intended to support employee growth while ensuring the department consistently delivers exceptional service to prospective clients, active clients, former clients, and internal departments.

STANDARD 1: PROFESSIONALISM

Every employee is expected to represent Nzinga MGMT in a professional manner at all times.

Professionalism includes:

- Maintaining respectful communication.
- Demonstrating accountability.
- Following agency policies and procedures.
- Protecting confidential information.
- Arriving prepared for assigned responsibilities.
- Maintaining a positive and solution-oriented attitude.

Professional conduct is evaluated continuously and is considered a core expectation of employment.

STANDARD 2: PRODUCTIVITY

Employees are expected to complete assigned responsibilities efficiently while maintaining agency quality standards.

Productivity is measured by the employee's ability to:

- Complete assigned tasks on time.
- Maintain organized records.
- Respond to requests promptly.
- Meet established deadlines.
- Effectively manage workload.

Employees should prioritize accuracy over speed while maintaining consistent workflow throughout the department.

STANDARD 3: ACCURACY

Accuracy is one of the most important performance indicators within the Client Affairs Department.

Employees are expected to:

- Maintain complete documentation.
- Minimize administrative errors.
- Verify information before submission.
- Follow established procedures.
- Maintain organized client records.

Repeated documentation errors or process deviations may result in additional coaching or corrective action.

STANDARD 4: TEAMWORK

The Client Affairs Department operates as one unified team.

Employees are expected to:

- Communicate effectively with coworkers.
- Support department objectives.
- Assist with operational needs when appropriate.
- Share information responsibly.
- Maintain a collaborative work environment.

Success is measured not only by individual performance but also by contributions to the overall success of the department.

STANDARD 5: CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

Employees are encouraged to continuously improve their knowledge, efficiency, and professional skills.

Growth may include:

- Learning new agency systems.
- Improving workflow efficiency.
- Participating in training opportunities.
- Providing operational recommendations.
- Preparing for advancement opportunities.

Employees who consistently demonstrate leadership, initiative, and accountability may be considered for future promotional opportunities.

ROLE-SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

Scouting Agent

Performance may be evaluated based on:

- Number of qualified leads generated.
- Completeness of Client Packets.

- Documentation accuracy.
- Lead responsiveness.
- Quality of discovery notes.
- Conversion of qualified leads into representation opportunities.
- Compliance with agency procedures.

Success is measured by the quality of prospective clients entering the Client Affairs pipeline—not simply the quantity of leads generated.

Success Manager

Performance may be evaluated based on:

- Accuracy of Client Packet reviews.
- Contract preparation accuracy.
- Contract turnaround times.
- Client activation efficiency.
- Administrative record quality.
- Renewal coordination.
- Offboarding completion.
- Overall lifecycle management.

Success is measured by maintaining an efficient, organized, and compliant client lifecycle from contract review through offboarding.

Account Manager

Performance may be evaluated based on:

- Payment processing accuracy.
- Financial record accuracy.
- Commission tracking.
- Billing resolution.
- Timeliness of financial updates.
- Financial reconciliation during offboarding.
- Compliance with financial procedures.

Success is measured through accurate financial administration and reliable client account management.

Director

Performance may be evaluated based on:

- Department performance.
- Workflow efficiency.
- Operational improvements.
- Client acquisition trends.
- Team development.
- Policy compliance.
- Overall department effectiveness.

The Director's success is measured by the long-term health, stability, and growth of the Client Affairs Department.

PERFORMANCE REVIEWS

Performance reviews may be conducted periodically by agency leadership.

Reviews may consider:

- Individual KPIs.
- Quality assurance results.
- Professional conduct.
- Productivity.
- Attendance and reliability.
- Collaboration with coworkers.
- Client feedback, when applicable.
- Compliance with agency procedures.

Performance reviews provide employees with constructive feedback, recognize achievements, and establish goals for continued development.

CAREER ADVANCEMENT

Nzinga MGMT believes in promoting qualified employees from within whenever practical.

Employees interested in advancement should consistently demonstrate:

- Strong work ethic.
- Leadership qualities.
- Accountability.
- Consistent performance.
- Professional communication.
- Mastery of current responsibilities.
- Commitment to the agency's mission and values.

Advancement decisions are based on organizational needs, demonstrated performance, and readiness to assume additional responsibilities.

PERFORMANCE STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Performance is measured by more than productivity alone.

Employees are expected to demonstrate professionalism, accuracy, accountability, collaboration, and a commitment to continuous improvement in every aspect of their work.

The Client Affairs Department succeeds when every employee consistently performs their responsibilities with integrity, attention to detail, and a shared commitment to delivering an exceptional client experience.

Performance expectations are intended to encourage growth, recognize excellence, and ensure the department continues to operate at the highest professional standard.

CONFIDENTIALITY & DATA PROTECTION POLICY

Purpose

The Client Affairs Department is entrusted with confidential information throughout every stage of the client lifecycle. Employees routinely access personal information, business records, contracts, financial documentation, internal communications, and other sensitive agency data.

The purpose of this policy is to establish clear expectations regarding the protection, handling, storage, and disclosure of confidential information.

Every employee is responsible for protecting the privacy of prospective clients, active clients, former clients, employees, and Nzinga MGMT.

Failure to maintain confidentiality may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment or contract, and may expose the agency to legal or financial risk.

STANDARD 1: CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Confidential information includes any information that is not publicly available and is obtained through employment or contracted work with Nzinga MGMT.

Examples include, but are not limited to:

- Client names and contact information.
- Government-issued identification.
- Addresses and personal information.
- Representation agreements.
- Financial records and payment history.
- Commission information.
- Internal evaluations and Client Packets.
- Business strategies.
- Internal communications.
- Login credentials and system access.

- Agency policies and internal procedures.
- Any information designated as confidential by agency leadership.

Employees should treat all client records and internal business information as confidential unless specifically instructed otherwise.

STANDARD 2: ACCESS TO INFORMATION

Employees may access confidential information only when it is necessary to perform their assigned responsibilities.

Although Client Affairs employees may have visibility into multiple client records, access does not authorize unnecessary review or use of information unrelated to assigned work.

Employees shall not:

- Access records out of curiosity.
- Share client information with unauthorized individuals.
- Download or copy confidential information for personal use.
- Discuss confidential matters outside authorized business purposes.

Access to information is a privilege that carries the responsibility to protect the agency and its clients.

STANDARD 3: INFORMATION SECURITY

Employees are responsible for safeguarding all agency information while using approved systems and devices.

To protect confidential information, employees should:

- Use agency-approved platforms whenever possible.
- Secure devices when not in use.
- Protect account passwords and login credentials.

- Report suspected security incidents immediately.
- Follow agency technology and cybersecurity policies.

Employees should never attempt to bypass agency security controls or provide unauthorized individuals with access to internal systems.

STANDARD 4: COMMUNICATION OF CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Confidential information should only be shared with authorized personnel who require the information to perform their assigned responsibilities.

Before sharing information, employees should verify:

- The recipient is authorized.
- The information is necessary for business purposes.
- The communication method is appropriate and secure.

Sensitive information should never be discussed in public settings or through unapproved communication channels.

Professional discretion is expected at all times.

STANDARD 5: RECORD RETENTION & DISPOSAL

Client records and agency documents shall be retained in accordance with Nzinga MGMT's record retention requirements.

Employees shall not delete, destroy, alter, or remove agency records without proper authorization.

When records are no longer required for operational or legal purposes, disposal shall be completed using agency-approved procedures to protect confidential information.

STANDARD 6: REPORTING SECURITY CONCERNS

Any employee who becomes aware of a potential confidentiality breach, unauthorized access, data loss, or security concern must report the matter to the Director immediately.

Examples include:

- Lost or stolen devices containing agency information.
- Unauthorized system access.
- Accidental disclosure of confidential information.
- Suspicious emails or phishing attempts.
- Improper handling of client records.

Prompt reporting allows the agency to respond quickly and reduce potential risks.

Employees will not be disciplined for reporting suspected security concerns in good faith.

STANDARD 7: EMPLOYEE RESPONSIBILITY

Confidentiality extends beyond the workplace.

Employees are expected to protect agency information during and after their employment or contractual relationship with Nzinga MGMT.

Confidential information obtained while working for the agency shall not be used for personal benefit or disclosed to unauthorized individuals after separation from the agency.

The obligation to maintain confidentiality continues even after employment has ended.

CONFIDENTIALITY STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Every employee entrusted with confidential information shares the responsibility of protecting the privacy of our clients and the integrity of Nzinga MGMT.

Confidentiality is not limited to documents or systems—it applies to conversations, electronic communications, business decisions, financial information, contracts, and every record maintained throughout the client lifecycle.

Protecting confidential information is a fundamental professional obligation and an essential part of maintaining the trust placed in the Client Affairs Department by our clients, partners, and employees.

TECHNOLOGY & SYSTEMS USAGE POLICY

Purpose

The Client Affairs Department relies on agency-approved technology and information systems to manage the complete client lifecycle. These systems are essential for maintaining accurate records, tracking client progress, facilitating communication, processing documentation, and ensuring operational efficiency.

The purpose of this policy is to establish consistent standards for the use of agency technology and to ensure all employees maintain the integrity, security, and accuracy of information stored within agency systems.

All employees are expected to use agency technology responsibly and exclusively for authorized business purposes.

STANDARD 1: AUTHORIZED SYSTEMS

Employees shall conduct all Client Affairs activities using agency-approved systems and software.

These systems may include:

- Client Relationship Management (CRM) platforms.
- Document storage systems.
- Contract management platforms.
- Internal communication platforms.
- Financial management systems.
- Scheduling and calendar systems.
- Project and workflow management software.
- Agency email accounts.

Employees shall not use personal software or unapproved applications to store or manage agency information without prior authorization from the Director.

STANDARD 2: ACCOUNT RESPONSIBILITY

Every employee is responsible for maintaining the security of their assigned accounts.

Employees shall:

- Maintain secure passwords.
- Keep login credentials confidential.
- Enable additional security measures when required by the agency.
- Log out of agency systems when work has concluded or when leaving a workstation unattended.
- Immediately report any suspected unauthorized access.

Employee accounts are assigned individually and shall not be shared with any other person.

All actions performed within agency systems are associated with the assigned user account and may be subject to audit.

STANDARD 3: DATA ENTRY STANDARDS

Information entered into agency systems should be accurate, complete, and updated in a timely manner.

Employees are responsible for ensuring that:

- Client information is entered correctly.
- Records are updated promptly following significant events.
- Required fields are completed.
- Duplicate records are avoided whenever possible.
- Supporting documentation is uploaded to the appropriate client file.

Accurate system records are essential to maintaining continuity throughout the client lifecycle.

STANDARD 4: DOCUMENT MANAGEMENT

All agency documents should be stored within approved document management systems.

Employees shall ensure that documents are:

- Uploaded promptly.
- Properly named according to agency standards.
- Stored in the appropriate client record.
- Accessible to authorized personnel.
- Protected from unauthorized modification or deletion.

Official agency documents should never be stored exclusively on personal devices or personal cloud storage accounts.

STANDARD 5: SYSTEM CHANGES

Employees shall not modify system settings, workflows, automations, templates, or permissions unless specifically authorized to do so.

Requests for system improvements, workflow changes, or new technology should be submitted to the Director for review.

Maintaining standardized systems helps ensure consistency across the Client Affairs Department.

STANDARD 6: SYSTEM AVAILABILITY

Employees are expected to report technical issues that may impact department operations as soon as they are identified.

Examples include:

- System outages.
- Login issues.
- Missing client records.

- Software errors.
- Failed document uploads.
- Technology performance concerns.

Prompt reporting allows the agency to resolve issues efficiently and minimize disruptions to client service.

STANDARD 7: ACCEPTABLE USE

Agency technology is provided to support agency operations.

Employees are expected to use agency systems professionally and responsibly.

The following activities are prohibited:

- Unauthorized access to agency information.
- Sharing login credentials.
- Installing unauthorized software.
- Downloading confidential information for personal use.
- Using agency systems for unlawful or inappropriate activities.
- Intentionally altering or deleting agency records without authorization.

Failure to comply with technology policies may result in disciplinary action.

STANDARD 8: SYSTEM AUDITS

Agency systems may be monitored and audited to ensure compliance with internal policies, security requirements, and operational standards.

Audits may include reviews of:

- User activity.
- Record accuracy.
- Document management.
- System access.
- Workflow compliance.
- Data integrity.

Employees are expected to cooperate fully with system reviews and audits conducted by agency leadership.

TECHNOLOGY & SYSTEMS STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Technology is a critical component of the Client Affairs Department and supports every stage of the client lifecycle.

Employees are expected to use agency systems responsibly, maintain accurate records, protect confidential information, and follow all established technology policies.

Consistent use of approved systems ensures operational efficiency, supports collaboration between departments, and helps deliver a professional experience for every client represented by Nzinga MGMT.

EMPLOYEE TRAINING & PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Purpose

The success of the Client Affairs Department depends on the knowledge, professionalism, and continuous development of its employees. Every team member is expected to understand their responsibilities, follow established procedures, and contribute to the department's commitment to operational excellence.

The purpose of this policy is to establish consistent expectations for employee training, onboarding, professional development, and career advancement within the Client Affairs Department.

Training is not a one-time event. It is an ongoing process that ensures employees remain knowledgeable, adaptable, and prepared to support the agency as it continues to grow.

STANDARD 1: NEW EMPLOYEE ONBOARDING

Every newly hired employee shall complete the department's onboarding process before assuming independent responsibilities.

The onboarding process is designed to familiarize employees with:

- The mission and structure of the Client Affairs Department.
- Agency policies and procedures.
- Department workflows.
- Technology and systems.
- Client confidentiality requirements.
- Position-specific responsibilities.
- Performance expectations.

Employees should demonstrate an understanding of these topics before working independently with prospective or active clients.

STANDARD 2: POSITION-SPECIFIC TRAINING

Each role within the Client Affairs Department has unique responsibilities that require specialized training.

Employees shall receive training relevant to their assigned position before performing those duties independently.

Training may include:

- Client acquisition procedures.
- Client Packet preparation.
- Contract administration.
- Financial account management.
- Client lifecycle management.
- Documentation standards.
- Communication procedures.
- Technology platforms.

Employees are expected to ask questions and seek clarification whenever additional guidance is needed.

STANDARD 3: CROSS-DEPARTMENT AWARENESS

Although employees are assigned specific responsibilities, every member of the Client Affairs Department should understand how each role contributes to the overall client lifecycle.

Employees may have visibility into departmental workflows beyond their assigned responsibilities to promote collaboration, continuity, and operational awareness.

Visibility does not authorize employees to perform responsibilities assigned to another role without approval or appropriate training.

Understanding the complete workflow helps employees better support one another and ensures a seamless experience for every client.

STANDARD 4: CONTINUING EDUCATION

Professional development is encouraged throughout employment with Nzinga MGMT.

Employees should actively pursue opportunities to strengthen their knowledge, improve efficiency, and develop leadership skills.

Examples include:

- Internal training sessions.
- Department meetings.
- Policy updates.
- Technology training.
- Leadership development.
- Professional certifications when applicable.
- Industry education.

Continuous learning helps the department adapt to changing business needs while maintaining high operational standards.

STANDARD 5: PERFORMANCE COACHING

Managers and leadership are responsible for providing constructive feedback that supports employee development.

Coaching may occur through:

- Performance reviews.
- Quality assurance reviews.
- One-on-one meetings.
- Workflow observations.

- Skills development sessions.

The purpose of coaching is to improve performance, reinforce best practices, and help employees achieve long-term success within the agency.

STANDARD 6: CAREER ADVANCEMENT

Nzinga MGMT is committed to promoting qualified employees from within whenever possible.

Employees who consistently demonstrate professionalism, accountability, leadership, and mastery of their current responsibilities may be considered for advancement opportunities as positions become available.

A typical career progression within the Client Affairs Department may include:

Scouting Agent → Success Manager → Account Manager → Director

Advancement is based on demonstrated performance, organizational needs, leadership potential, and readiness to assume additional responsibilities.

No promotion is automatic, and all advancement decisions remain at the discretion of agency leadership.

STANDARD 7: RESPONSIBILITY FOR LEARNING

Every employee shares responsibility for their own professional development.

Employees are expected to:

- Remain familiar with current agency policies.
- Review updated SOPs and procedures.
- Participate in required training.
- Ask questions when clarification is needed.
- Apply feedback to improve performance.
- Support a culture of continuous learning.

Professional growth benefits both the individual employee and the organization as a whole.

TRAINING STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

Training is an ongoing investment in the success of both our employees and our clients.

The Client Affairs Department is committed to developing knowledgeable professionals who understand agency procedures, embrace accountability, and continuously improve their skills.

Employees who invest in their own development strengthen the department, improve the client experience, and contribute to the long-term success of Nzinga MGMT.

Learning, leadership, and professional growth are fundamental expectations of every member of the Client Affairs Department.

SOP COMPLIANCE & CORRECTIVE ACTION POLICY

Purpose

The Client Affairs Department operates through standardized procedures designed to ensure consistency, accountability, and operational excellence throughout the client lifecycle.

This Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) serves as the official guide for departmental operations. Every employee is expected to understand, follow, and consistently apply the procedures outlined within this manual.

The purpose of this policy is to establish expectations regarding SOP compliance, accountability, corrective action, and continuous operational improvement.

The objective of corrective action is to improve performance, protect agency operations, and ensure every client receives the same professional experience.

STANDARD 1: COMPLIANCE WITH ESTABLISHED PROCEDURES

All employees are expected to perform their responsibilities in accordance with the procedures established within this SOP.

Employees shall:

- Follow documented workflows.
- Complete assigned responsibilities.
- Maintain required documentation.
- Follow established approval processes.
- Protect confidential information.
- Operate within the authority assigned to their position.

Intentional deviation from established procedures without authorization is prohibited.

STANDARD 2: RESPONSIBILITY FOR COMPLIANCE

Every employee is personally responsible for understanding the policies and procedures that apply to their position.

Employees are expected to review updates to this SOP as they are issued and seek clarification whenever a procedure is unclear.

Failure to understand a documented procedure does not remove the responsibility to comply with agency standards.

STANDARD 3: REPORTING PROCEDURAL CONCERNS

Employees are encouraged to report situations in which established procedures cannot reasonably be followed or when operational issues create unnecessary risk or inefficiency.

Examples include:

- Workflow conflicts.
- Missing procedures.
- Technology limitations.
- Documentation concerns.
- Policy inconsistencies.
- Process improvement opportunities.

Employees should communicate these concerns to the Director so they can be reviewed and, when appropriate, incorporated into future revisions of this SOP.

Constructive feedback is encouraged and supports the continuous improvement of the department.

STANDARD 4: CORRECTIVE ACTION

When performance or procedural issues are identified, agency leadership will determine the most appropriate corrective action based on the nature and severity of the issue.

Corrective action may include:

- Coaching and guidance.
- Additional training.
- Review of department procedures.
- Increased quality assurance monitoring.
- Written performance documentation.
- Other administrative actions deemed appropriate by agency leadership.

The purpose of corrective action is to improve performance and maintain departmental standards while providing employees with an opportunity to correct deficiencies.

STANDARD 5: REPEATED OR SERIOUS VIOLATIONS

Repeated failure to follow established procedures or serious violations of agency policy may result in additional disciplinary action.

Examples may include:

- Repeated failure to maintain accurate documentation.
- Unauthorized disclosure of confidential information.
- Intentional falsification of client records.
- Failure to follow contract administration procedures.
- Unauthorized approval of agency actions.
- Misuse of agency systems or resources.
- Conduct that places the agency, its clients, or employees at unnecessary risk.

Agency leadership will review each situation individually and determine the appropriate response based on the circumstances.

STANDARD 6: SOP REVISIONS

This SOP is intended to evolve as Nzinga MGMT continues to grow.

Agency leadership may revise policies, procedures, workflows, or departmental responsibilities to improve efficiency, strengthen operations, or address changing business needs.

Employees will be notified of significant revisions and may be required to complete additional training before updated procedures become effective.

Only the Director, or an individual designated by the Director, has the authority to approve official revisions to this SOP.

STANDARD 7: COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

Compliance with this SOP should be viewed as a commitment to professionalism rather than simply following rules.

Every documented procedure exists to:

- Protect the client.
- Protect the agency.
- Support fellow employees.
- Improve operational consistency.
- Maintain the quality of services provided by Nzinga MGMT.

Employees are expected to approach every responsibility with integrity, accountability, and a commitment to continuous improvement.

SOP COMPLIANCE STANDARD (INTERNAL POLICY)

This Standard Operating Procedure establishes the operational expectations of the Client Affairs Department.

Every employee shares responsibility for maintaining compliance with these procedures, protecting the integrity of department operations, and contributing to a culture of professionalism and accountability.

The success of the Client Affairs Department depends not only on individual performance but on the consistent execution of standardized processes by every member of the team.

Compliance with this SOP ensures that every client receives a consistent, organized, and professional experience throughout their relationship with Nzinga MGMT.
